Recommendation Letter - SDG Initiatives at Atmiya University, Rajkot

It is my pleasure to write this Recommendation-Letter for Atmiya University, Rajkot. I know the Atmiya Group of Institutions as well as Atmiya University for more than last 5 years as District Education Officer of Rajkot District. Being a partner in 'Rajkot SDG Aware City' project, I have closely been associated with the sustainability and SDG related efforts of Atmiya University.

I find Atmiya University leadership as well as SDG project team to be highly committed towards the cause of SDG education and dissemination through teaching, research and extension activities. The frequent questions and activity facilitation requests from the faculty members and staff members of the university displays their continuous engagement with the cause of making community SDG aware.

The university has been actively engaged in the SDG and Human Values through a number of courses they offer. I would like to specifically mention about the 'Rajkot SDG Aware City' project, which approaches the SDG related outreach in very innovative and holistic manner. Through orienting and training the students in SDG and Human Values, Atmiya University is creating a great foundation not only for the accomplishment of SDG 2030 but also beyond that.

The Atmiya approach to SDG integration in higher education is quite unique in terms of integration of teaching, research and outreach, irrespective of subject discipline and level of education. Further, the type of collective action created through Atmiya SDG initiatives is truly a model for effective and efficient mobilization of masses through educational activities.

I am quite impressed by the approach adopted by Atmiya University, as it does not force the students towards SDG action rather it educates them through courses; and the outreach projects help in translating the knowledge to action by involving community members and public. Based on the initial results and successful SDG awareness journey, I am confident that this model has the great scalability in terms of adaptation and implementation by other academic institutions and universities.

Being an important stakeholder in the education system of the Gujarat state, I support this initiative for larger sustainability impact through mass dissemination and education about SDG linked behaviour and action. I am confident that the UN SDG Action Award will be quite helpful in not only inspiring the thousands of hardworking boys and girls but also improve opportunity for cross-border knowledge transfer, particularly among institutions and universities.

I wish the Atmiya University SDG team all the best!

Thanking you.

Yours* sincerely,

1.0 Background/Introduction

Member countries of the United Nations launched Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in 2015 to set the unified direction of global development till 2030. The set of 17 SDGs i.e. 16 goals in different development areas + 1 goal (SDG17) focusing on innovation and cross-sectoral partnerships to support realization of remaining 16 goals, present a comprehensive system to plan and track development progress across in any country or regional context.

This is important to note that different countries, societies and organizations can plan and implement activities for SDGs as per the development priorities in their specific context. In India, the NITI Aayog is central nodal agency to coordinate the planning and implementation of SDGs. Different state Governments and other organizations are planning the activities in view of the specific development needs. However, based on the initial experiences in SDGs, it is quite clear that direct or indirect participation of all the stakeholders, including citizens, are essential for meaningful efforts to realize SDGs.

Higher education is an important area for not only contributing through education for SDGs but also as a catalyst to trigger collective action movement for SDGs involving all the stakeholders. In view of the SDG 17.16, which focuses on innovative multistakeholder partnerships, ATMIYA University, jointly in association with SDG Choupal (an initiative of Nagrik Foundation, launched at NITI Aayog), has planned to implement 'Rajkot – SDG Aware City' project through involvement of all the stakeholders in Rajkot. As there is no such reported initiative so far globally, this is first of its' kind project in the world.

We request all the citizens of historical city of Rajkot to participate and support this noble cause for smooth and resource-effective implementation of SDGs in the city. Also, this would present a global partnership model for universities and communities for collaborative development action.

2.0 Why this project?

- Helps in creating awareness among masses about the desired action and behaviour for sustainable planet.
- Optimizes resources in training and capacity building through stakeholder involvement.

exercises a model of collective action for responsible citizen-focused sustainable development.

Will be a model for university-community partnership for larger good.
